Your chance to stand out!
Incredible opportunity!

Program description

_Curtin University Perth_ participates in a “P2P: Challenge Extremism” competition which involves over 20 universities worldwide to develop creative approaches to address the growing problem of violent extremism, which means individuals and groups who choose violence to pursue extremist goals.

Curtin University is the only University in Australia invited to participate in this global competition and the timeline for the project in from now until early June 2015. And you can be a part of it!

The objective for our team at Curtin is to develop and implement a highly creative and sophisticated campaign to provide alternatives to the narratives used by violent extremists. To support our project team in implementing the campaign we developed, we are looking for skilled and committed students.

To complement our team, we are looking for creative:

- Marketing students
- Design students
- IT specialists
- Web designers
- Media production students (Film, Photo and Digital)

What you need:

- Very good communication skills and work ethics
- Sound understanding of social media concepts
- The time and professional drive to commit to this project besides your studies
- Very good skills in your respective area of expertise
- The ability to hit the ground running
What are the benefits for you?

This is a once in a lifetime opportunity for you to propel your academic career forward. Beyond hands on experience in a cross-border, real-life project environment, as part of the top three teams you might have the chance to travel to Washington (all expenses paid) to personally present our campaign to a highly influential audience at the absolute top levels of government, plus a tailor-made exchange program for you in the United States afterwards.

Imagine this on your CV!

We are looking for your excellent creativity and skills in order to include your creative and professional input into our campaign, which addresses issues associated with violent extremism in a way like no other. And we want you on board!

Contact:

For the right people, this is an outstanding opportunity to shape their academic career in an unparalleled way as well as the direction of this very important campaign; and to make a real impact on one of the biggest issues of our time from a pivotal point.

So if you are excited about challenging yourself and you are ready to get stuck in, then please do not hesitate to contact the Agency Coordinators at Curtin University.

Send us an email via Curtin.CVE@gmail.com for more information, and detail how you are going to make the difference.

We look forward to hear from you!